

MEDIA RELEASE

27 January 2016

As the Premiere Distributor for Dahua in Australia, Seadan Security & Electronics announced today the list of VMS partners supporting Dahua IP Cameras has grown to 70+.

Ian Harris, OAM, said today “this is a significant milestone for Dahua and Seadan’s customers. It means that the Dahua IP cameras supplied by Seadan are able to be easily used with practically any VMS application.”

Support for Dahua Network Video recorders is also available for selected models. He added, “As the Premiere Distributor, Seadan introduced Dahua to Australian Integrators over 18 months ago with a National roll out. We have huge stock of a wide variety of Dahua products in our branches across Australia, as well as expert sales and technical staff to help our customers win any size project”.

Seadan Security & Electronics is a leading Australian wholesale supplier of security and CCTV system solutions. Seadan is a national distributor of Dahua products, with local engineering support and with Dahua products on display in all Seadan showrooms across Australia.
