Elvox boxes it up for Australia

Elvox has created a new compact Video Intercom Kit specifically designed and released exclusively into the Australian market. Seizing the opportunity to capitalise on the growing number of homes being built in major cities, Seadan requested a Video Intercom Kit from Italy to take advantage of the changing housing landscape.

True to European stylishness, the new Elvox 2-Wire Video Intercom Kit is beautifully designed and simple to install. The Video Intercom Kit consists of a hands-free 7 inch ultra thin monitor for call answering, camera activation and opening electric locks. The door station is surface mounted complete with a colour camera using white LED night-vision, back-lit name card holder and rain hood (IP54) for weather protection. It also has the option to add a second monitor for greater convenience.

In addition to being classically designed and aesthetically appealing, the Elvox Video Intercom Kit is excellent value for money and more affordable than some of other leading intercom manufacturers in the market.

The Elvox Video Intercom Kit is ideal for trades people with simple installation and easy to use functionality. Available exclusively through Seadan Security & Electronics.
